Nassau County District 3 Commissioner Jeff Gray Biography

District 3 County Commissioner Jeff Gray has been married to Diana Gray for 27 years, and they have two adult children. Jeff began his successful professional business career in 1987 with global class 8 heavy duty vehicle manufacturer AB Volvo/Mack Trucks Inc. which manufacturers and provides transport solutions to 62 countries around the world. Jeff and his family have relocated many times in his career, and he has held many positions throughout his 33 years of employment, to include Manufacturing, Assembly Operations, OEM Parts Distribution Centers, and Logistics Operations Center sites. After relocating to Nassau County, Jeff and his family knew where they wanted to call their forever home...Nassau County.

Jeff is a Christian, and he and his family are blessed to have a passion for giving back to his community. Jeff loves volunteering with Baranbas Center and our local churches across the county to help others. Jeff served the citizens of Nassau County as a Code Enforcement Board member (Chairman) under former Nassau County Commissioner Stacy Johnson. Jeff also served the Nassau County citizens as a Nassau County Planning and Economic Opportunity Board (Chairman) planning agent, for both elected terms of former Nassau County Commissioner Pat Edwards. When not volunteering and serving others, Jeff enjoys attending church, boating, working out, and spending quality time with his family and pets.

Nassau County is a beautiful, diversified county that provides its citizens an excellent quality of life like no other on the eastern seaboard...let's work together to ensure Nassau County remains a wonderful place to live, work, and play. We are truly blessed to live in Nassau County.

Jeff is honored to have gained the public trust, to serve as your Nassau County District 3 Commissioner.
